PAY BEFORE A REPORT IS MADE

William Posey, Former Clerk, and Will King, Former Sheriff, Return Funds to County.

AMOUNTED IN ALL TO $808.82

Examiners Have Made no Reports on Their Terms—Allege Illegal Retention of Fees.

Yea verily, that State accounting law, which is a sort of a day of reckoning for former county and township officials is a strange statute. At first there was an air of absolute secrecy about the whole proceedings. The field examiners generally went about as the impersonation of a real Sphinx and never utter a word. They made their report to the head office in Indianapolis and there the big finds and startling discovery of false usage of money was given to the world through the medium of the Indianapolis papers. Then it was that the former officials had no opportunity to make a denial. They could only stand by and bear the brunt of the outrage.

But it seems to be different now. The field examiners call the officials, whose records are being examined, in and discuss the situation. They tell them where they are short and for what reason, at least, that has been the case with the last set of examiners which was here. And now the reports are sent to counties, where they belong and are given out to the home papers at the same time they are to the metropolitan papers so that the accused may have an opportunity to deny the allegations.

On account of that change in the management, which is due no doubt, to the public sentiment against the law, two former county officials have paid back into the Rush county treasury sums of money, which field examiners have alleged they are short, before the reports have been given out and made public. That is the case with William Posey, former county clerk, and William King, former sheriff.

Mr. Posey has paid to the treasurer $485.82, which the field examiners told him he was short on account of retaining fees which, they say, did not belong to him. Of that amount $390.05 was transcript fees, $87.32 election fees, and $8.45 omitted fees. Mr. Posey believed at the time that he was entitled to the fees as clerks before him had retained them. He paid the whole amount under protest, so that if the law is changed, the county will be compelled to return them.

Mr. King, who retired from the sheriff's office a year ago, paid back to the county $323. Of that amount $90.50 was for posting election notices and $132.50 was "in and out" fees. It will be remembered that the sheriffs before him had retained "in and out" fees as well as election notice fees, and for that reason he kept them for his own use. He paid the total amount under protest.

PLACED ON COMMITTEE.

At the annual meeting of the State Board of Tax Commissioners and the county assessors yesterday in Indianapolis, John F. Moses, the assessor of this county, was placed on the committee on farm products. The session continued today.

QUITSONE TO TAKE ANOTHER

Senator Moore Returns From Washington to Attend Legislature.

Senator Ed Moore returned to Connersville Monday morning from Washington, D. C., where he has been holding down a good job in the census department for several months, says the Connersville Examiner. The senator was forced to resign his Washington job in order to take up his duties as senator, which, while it may not pay as well, is probably a whole lot more fun. Mr. Moore left Monday afternoon for Indianapolis to get good and ready for the opening of the legislature Thursday. Mr. Moore is a "hold-over."

DESIRED HALL AT CONFERENCE

Lieutenant Governor Called to Indianapolis to Attend Meeting of Democratic House Committee.

BILLS ARE CONSIDERED TODAY

Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall went to Indianapolis this morning, where he was called by a telegram from W. W. Spencer, chairman of the committee of Democratic members of the House who wish to have a conference with him. The meeting will be for the purpose of making arrangements for the introduction in the Senate of copies of the bills to be introduced in the House and they desired the presence of Mr. Hall. According to the arrangements, bills are to be submitted to the committee by the members for its approval before being introduced in the House. The senate has no similar committee.

NEW INSTRUCTOR BEGINS HIS DUTIES

Lawrence Smelser, Graduate of Earlham in 1907, Comes Here Highly Recommended.

WAS ATHLETE AND ORATOR

Lawrence Smelser of Richmond, who took up his duties in the local high school as mathematics instructor yesterday, was employed to fill out the unexpired year of O. D. Tyner, who has been given a leave of absence. Mr. Smelser comes to the school board highly recommended for the position. He was graduated from Earlham College in 1907 and taught school at Centerville in Wayne county the following year. The next year he went to the Philippines, where he acted as a special instructor. During the year which just closed he has been professor in oratory in Earlham, in the absence of Prof. Trueblood, who has been south for his health and who returned during the holidays. During his college career, Mr. Smelser was a prominent athlete as well as a good student. He won the State oratorical contest at Indianapolis one year, while in school.

PLACE DOGS ON TAKE NO ACTION ROBBERS' TRAIL ON FRATERNITIES

L. A. Draper Home in Spiceland is Robbed and Bloodhounds Are Put to Work.

HOUSE WAS BADLY RANSACKED

Burglars Visited Every Room, But Valuable Papers Are Only Things Missed.

In an effort to trace the person or persons responsible for the robbery of the home of L. O. Draper in Spiceland early Saturday morning, Sheriff K. K. Kirk and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Yost brought the Houghes bloodhounds from Indianapolis Saturday afternoon and put them to work, says the New Castle Courier.

The efforts of the keen-scented canines were successful as they readily took the ten-hour-old trail and dragged their keepers for about three squares to Cherry street, where they stopped. Two other similar trips were made by the animals.

Although no arrests have been made the authorities and Mr. Draper believe that the actions of the dogs point to clues which may lead to the apprehension of the guilty parties.

The Draper robbery occurred early Saturday morning and the plunderers were evidently after valuable papers in the possession of Mr. Draper. Silverware and money were overlooked by the intruders and the only missing article is a sheet from a small loose-leaf ledger, showing the expense account of Mr. Draper in his business affairs.

The members of the family believe that they were drugged by the robbers. None of them are sound sleepers yet they did not hear the burglars in the house, who were evidently in many rooms both on the first and second floors. When they awoke the next morning all were greatly depressed and were suffering with violent headaches.

It is understood that action may be taken after this week which may throw additional light on the robbery.

WOMAN, BORN HERE DIES AT OLD AGE

Mrs. Mary H. Smither, 83 Years Old,
Expired at Home of Daughter in Indianapolis.

WAS REARED IN RUSH COUNTY

Mrs. Mary H. Smither, 83 years old, died at 10:10 o'clock last evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William J. Eaton, in Indianapolis, after an illness complicated by her advanced years. Mrs. Smither was born in Rush county and went to Marion county when eight years old. Her husband, who died nearly seventeen years ago, was a farmer in Marion county for a number of years. After his death Mrs. Smither remained on the farm in Franklin township, Marion county. About three years ago she went to Indianapolis to reside with her daughter. Few other near relatives survive.

School Board Meets But Does Not Discuss Possibility of Excluding Secret Organizations.

SCHOOLS ARE DEMOCRATIC

Members of Board Have Expressed Disapproval of Fraternity Because They Are Against Law.

Even though the agitation against high school fraternities all over the State has been very strong, the school board at its regular monthly meeting last night, took no action against the organizations in the local high school. The school board here is against such organizations because they are against the law. So far as any action against them, they are not prepared to make any statement as yet. They have avowed their disapproval of them, the principal reason being that they are contrary to the statutes of the state of Indiana.

William E. Wallace, a member of the city school board, said this morning, that so far as any defined action against the fraternities in the Rushville high school are concerned, there had never been any taken, only that they had long since expressed their disapproval of them being in existence here. The majority of the members of the school board are against the fraternities, not only because they are contrary to the state law, but because they are of no value whatever. They assert that the fraternity has no place in the life of a high school student and that they are absolutely valueless, so far as any benefits to be obtained are concerned.

The members of the board feel that the agitation will become so strong against them that they will sink into obscurity. They feel that the high school fraternity is nothing more than a mimic of the college fraternity and is only the result of an ungovernable desire to follow in the footsteps of their elders. Unfortunately, so members of the board declare, the high school fraternity has taken all that is bad from the college fraternity and eliminated that which is good. The fraternity in college supplies the home life and the companionship for the young man or young woman who is away from home, while in the high school, most students have their home life in their own home and the fraternity brings no tangible good from that source. So far as the social feature is concerned, the benefits are nothing since high school students gather at functions, irrespective of clique or class. They may be an excuse to hold meetings, but aside from that they are valueless, if they may be termed a desirable asset.

Members of the school board hold that the public schools are a democratic institution. They are kept up by the general taxation of the people. One child or student has as many rights as another. And for an organization to be fostered in the school, which creates snobbish pupils, cliques and exclusive sets and which may cause the less attractive school boy or girl to be excluded, is wrong, so members of the board declare.

Fraternities have been summarily dealt with in other high schools. Both in Anderson and Brazil the authorities put it up to fraternity members, leave your fraternity or our high school. They left the fraternity. In Indianapolis recently the school commissioners decided that a member of any fraternity could not graduate.

It has been decided by the board that telephones shall be installed in the city school buildings after an absence of several months and a long controversy. A compromise was finally reached, the telephone company erasing the old phone bill against the board after the board has agreed to pay the regular rate for phones until a different order was made by the stockholders of the company.

PURCHASES ORPHANS' HOME

Henry County's Commissioners Place
Miss Cora Shelly in Charge.

The Henry county council yesterday afternoon appropriated $8,400 for the purchase of the joint orphans' home of Henry and Rush counties at Spiceland, owned by the heirs of the late Mrs. Ella Bundy. Miss Cora Shelly yesterday took charge of the home as matron and the orphans of Rush county will be cared for by Henry county the same as they were by Mrs. Bundy.

YOUTHFUL THIEF MAKES CONFESSION

Clyde Perry, 21, Tells of Stealing
Horse and Buggy From Ogden
Sunday Night.

POLICE WERE ON LOOKOUT

The police were notified yesterday to be on the lookout for a stolen horse and buggy, taken from the barn of John Allen in Ogden in Wayne county and a set of harness stolen from the barn of Theodore Sears in the same town Sunday night.

Clyde Perry of Ogden, twenty-one years old, was arrested in Richmond last evening, accused of the theft and later confessed to it. Perry confessed to stealing the outfit from the two barns and driving to Richmond in it. He also admitted that he was guilty of a number of other thefts in Ogden and vicinity. The youthful criminal refused to kiss his mother when she arrived at the Richmond police headquarters last night to console him.

TRI KAPPAS MAKE ENVIALE RECORD

Sell 6,069 Red Cross Seals in Rushville During Holiday Season
by Tireless Industry.

AN INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

The members of the local chapter of the Tri Kappa sorority are more than elated at the success which they had in the sale of Red Cross seals this year. They just sent a money order today to the head of the organization in this State for $60.69, which means that they sold 6,069 seals during the holiday season which just closed. That is 1,169 more than they sold last year, for at that time they only turned in $49.

Their large sale this year is due to their own relentless industry. If they had left the sales to the stores it is very likely that they would not have sold as many as two thousand. The greater number, by far, was sold at the postoffice, where two Tri Kappas were stationed continually every day for the eight days previous to Christmas.

Incurred by Receivership—
To Equip Line.

That the four million, eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars borrowed by the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company of New York and a mortgage given on the line for the money, will be used to extend the line is certain from the statement made in the mortgage, which covers forty printed pages and which was filed in the county recorder's office here today.

An official of the company stated today that the money was borrowed principally to pay off the debts of the receivership which was just lifted. The funds will also be used to further equip, operate, maintain and construct its railroads and to discharge all obligations.

The mortgage is given to the Central Trust Company of New York and E. Francis Hyde of the same city. The language of the mortgage, which applies to the purpose and use of the funds is as follows:

Whereas the Traction Company is duly incorporated under the laws of Indiana for the purpose of constructing, purchasing, leasing and otherwise acquiring and owning and operating and maintaining a system of street and interurban street railroads, switches and side-tracks in, through and between certain cities and towns within said State of Indiana, specified in its articles of association, and has duly resolved, by vote of its stockholders and directors to borrow money in such amounts as shall be necessary to acquire, construct, complete and equip its railroads and discharge obligations incurred therefor, and to issue and dispose of its bonds for the amount so borrowed to the total aggregate principal amount of not exceeding four million, eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($4,850,000.00) under and subject to the terms and conditions hereinafter specified, and to mortgage its property and franchise to secure said bonds.

Woman's Legal Status A Hundred Years Ago

Marilla M. Ricker, of Dover, N. H., who ran for governor of New Hampshire in the late election, and of course was defeated, finds consolation in the fact that woman suffrage in the State of Washington won a victory. Of woman's condition and legal status a hundred years ago she says:

"In 1800 married women were not permitted in any country to control their property nor to will it away at death; to all intents and purposes they did not own it. The common law in operation in England and the United States held husband and wife to be one and that one was the husband. The legal existence of the wife was so merged in that of her husband, she was said to be 'dead in the law.' Not only did he control her property, collect and use her wages, select the food and clothing for herself and children, decide upon the education and religion of their children, but to a very large extent he controlled her 'freedom of thought, speech and actions.' If she disagreed with him, or in any way offended him, he possessed the legal right, upheld by public opinion, to punish her; the courts only interfering when the chastisement exceeded the popular idea of severity. At this time it was held by courts in England and the United States that a man in whipping his wife should be restricted to a stick no larger than his thumb. All possessions passed into the hands of the husband at marriage. No college in the world admitted women."

If the cause of woman will make as much progress in the next hundred years as it did in the last, some future historian may excite the wonder of his readers by stating—as Mrs. Ricker has recently discovered—that in the year 1910 no woman could be candidate for governor of New Hampshire.

MACHINE SELLS STAMPS.

Clergyman's Invention Knows Enough to Refuse Bogus Coins.

Some months ago a Trinidad clergyman designed a postage stamp machine, which has recently been improved in London and installed in a postoffice in that city.

By automatic action when a proper coin is placed in the slot and the handle pulled it separates a penny stamp from a roll inside the machine and securely fixes it upon the envelope held in an aperture of the machine. The machine is about the size of an ordinary typewriter and stamps envelopes, newspapers or circulars at the rate of 4,000 an hour with seemingly absolute accuracy. The machine will hold 50,000 stamps, and as used each stamp is automatically registered.

The coin to be received by this piece of mechanism must be genuine, of perfect size and shape. It is claimed that it will return the silver piece inserted in the slot by error, but keeps without any recompense the fraudulent metal disk. It is reported that the machine is to be placed in every underground railway station and at all pillar boxes.

Business Men Won Out.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 3.—At yesterday's election the commission form of government was chosen by a majority of 700. The vote was 3,790 for and 3,090 against. The brewery interests opposed the plan. A non-partisan organization composed of business men, principally members of the chamber of commerce, led in the fight for the commission plan.

LORIMER'S SEAT
TO BE VACATED

If Confidence of His Opponents
Is Justified.

SAY THEY HAVE THE VOTES

It is Now Asserted Among the Senators Who Have Been Looking Into the Case That They Will Be Able to Command a Sufficient Number of Votes to Declare Title to Seat Invalid—Attitude of Indiana Senators.

Washington, Jan. 3.—That they will be able to command a sufficient number of votes to declare his title to his seat invalid, the opponents of William Lorimer are feeling very confident. One of the Republican senators who will be heard in opposition to the report of the committee and who has been making a careful study of the record of the case, declares that he has found ten votes out of the 108 cast for Lorimer in the assembly to be tainted. This senator predicts that the vote will come on a motion to declare Mr. Lorimer's title to his seat invalid. It will require simply a majority to pass this resolution, whereas to expel a senator would require two-thirds of the senate.

Senator Shively of Indiana, one of the leaders on the Democratic side, has let it be known that he is opposed to Lorimer. He has not yet made a canvass of the Democratic senators, but believes that it is likely that Senator Lorimer will be ousted if the question of his right to his seat ever comes to a vote.

Senator Beveridge, a member of the senate committee on privileges and elections, is still at work on the case, and declines to say what his attitude will be, but the Republican insurgent senators all understand that he will oppose Lorimer and believe he will submit a minority report.

LOOKING INTO IT

Mysterious Poisoning Case Has the Authorities Guessing.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 3.—State's Attorney Robb is investigating the mysterious Elosser-Twigg poisoning case. Mr. and Mrs. Elosser, the parents of the girl, are indignant that insinuations are abroad reflecting on their daughter May, a sister of the dead girl. The report is that Twigg first paid attention to May Elosser, then shifted to Grace. The family denies that ill-feeling existed between the sisters. Coroner Beall said persistent reports about May Elosser's relations with Grace may result in her arrest.

The poison that killed the pair is so deadly that a drop or two placed on chewing gum would do the work. Twigg had chewing gum in his mouth. State's Attorney Robb is working on a murder theory.

RIDING ON PILOT

And When Head-On Smash Occurred These Six Men Were Killed.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 3.—A wild train of coal cars and an accommodation passenger train collided on the Millersville branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio, killing six men. The men were riding on the pilot of the engine and the train was turning a sharp curve, when it met the loose cars and there was not time for the men to jump, all being caught unawares and crushed to death. The dead are William Akers, brakeman, Cattlettsburg; John Worley, conductor, Louisville; L. E. Vinson, F. U. Fugate and Lemuel Mills, Van Lear, and L. A. Smeltzer, Ironton, O.

Nitroglycerine Thawed Out.
Lexington, Ky., Jan. 3.—Elbert Winsted and Samuel Spivey were killed and Mrs. Elbert Winsted, mother of Elbert, was fatally injured at Irvine when a can of nitroglycerin they had placed near a fire in the home of Clay Winsted exploded. The house was blown to pieces.

A Big Job of Handshaking.
Washington, Jan. 3.—At President Taft's second New Year's reception yesterday exactly 5,625 persons filed past the president and Mrs. Taft in the two hours and a half. This beats the record of last year by fifty.

After knocking out a guard, five desperate "hold up" men escaped from the Atlanta jail.

Boston, Jan. 3.—According to the Chelsea police, Walter B. Rogers, better known to the people of Chelsea as "Buddie," who is believed by army officers to be responsible for the article, "The Story of a Deserter," in the current issue of a monthly magazine, which has caused such a stir that an official inquiry has resulted, is wanted for the theft of over $300 by the police of Buffalo. The theft was committed about two years ago in Buffalo, and the Chelsea police have been looking for Rogers ever since. He will be arrested if he goes back to Chelsea. There is also a charge of desertion from the army against him.

Rogers's army career has caused a sensation among Chelsea people. Coming from one of the best families in the city, young Rogers was a social favorite. Upon the death of his father, the late Colonel Walter M. Rogers, "Buddie" went west after having got his share of his father's estate, about $5,000, and enlisted in the cavalry. During his trial for desertion at Fort Ethan Allen, about a year ago, his mother suddenly left her home, and her whereabouts at present are not known.

Scrapping Over the Alaska Coal Pile.

Things are shaping up for a big fight over rights to mine coal in Alaska. A horde of lobbyists will be under foot in the capitol at Washington, indicating that the interests looking for favors are not actuated solely by a benevolent desire to advance the interests of humanity.

Alaska is not the only place in our territory where a man can support a family. There will be no irreparable loss if this wild region remains untamed for a few years, until our engineers have had reasonable time to determine a fair price for the people's coal property.

People who favor immediate action must enjoy paying a liberal bonus to rich corporations every time they shovel coal into a factory fire-box or a home heater. Most of this could have been saved, had the government of the early days been able to see that coal is worth more than farm land, and that such deposits ought not to become private property.

A year or two's delay means the saving of a heavy tax on this territory for all time.

The Indianapolis News reprints an article from the New York Evening Mail, which tells of the beauties of the parcels post system in Germany. All of which may be very true, but what works well in Germany does not work in the United States. In Germany the small dealer, tradesman and manufacturer still has a show. He can conduct his business, and make a nice living out of it, while in the United States everything is done by large capitalized corporations, and the small man has no show whatever. The small manufacturer has been wiped out altogether, and it is feared that a parcel post in this country will wipe out the small dealer.

OF HUMAN INTEREST.

"ONE" TOO MANY.

One morning not many days ago, there was a great catastrophe at a Rushville boarding house. Someone made a mistake, as someone always does. The alarm clock rang and the whole boarding house troupe was astir. They had their breakfasts and one man who works at the I. & C. power house started for the scene of his daily labors. He arrived and there was the night crew still toiling diligently. They looked at him and then they started. It was only two o'clock. He returned home disgusted, but someone had already discovered the mistake. Someone had set the alarm clock for one o'clock.

WOULD HELP OTHERS.

Lew Cline, rural mail carrier, is always willing to take others' part. This is another tale which has escaped from the back end of the post-office. Anyway, Lew will take anyone's part—all he needs be is the "under dog."

John Finley, another rural carrier, and the premier "kiddie" of the bunch, has a joke on someone every evening. He makes first one and then the other feel the brunt of his keen wit or his stinging sarcasm.

Not many moons ago he was telling a story. Everyone knew it was not true when he started, but Lew took his part anyway. He was willing to swear that John's story was an absolute fact even if he didn't know anything about it.

"What's the matter with you, Cline," spoke up someone, "Finley's a bigger liar than you are."

"No he aint," returned Lew Cline hastily.

WHAT'S MATTER WITH FATHER?

"What's the matter with father, he's all right," sang a high school youth as he entered his home in East Seventh street, the other evening about six-thirty for his usual meal. But father was right there at the door, waiting for his wandering boy. He did not enjoy the tune.

"I believe I told you to come home directly after school and carry the ashes out of the cellar, didn't I?"

"Yes," answered the boy un-awares.

After several applications of the good leather boot, the father asked, "Now, what's the matter with father?"

MAKE CHARGE IN LICENSING SYSTEM

State Superintendent Sends Out Booklet, Explaining New Method Which Will be Used.

CHANGES ARE IMPORTANT

County Superintendent C. M. George has received the following self-explanatory communication from Charles A. Greathouse, State Superintendent of public instruction. "I am sending you by express package of booklets explaining the Indiana licensing system. Your attention is called to a few changes that have been made. The first is in reference to the securing of a sixty months license. Hereafter it will not be considered that examination is taken in two divisions, but any one securing a thirty-six months state common school license will be eligible to take an examination in the high school subjects, necessary to entitle him to a sixty months license, providing both examinations are taken in the same calendar year.

"Hereafter all applicants for a high school license will be required to pass an examination in the Science of Education. A high school license in one or more subjects may be issued for twelve, twenty-four or thirty-six months, according to the grades earned.

"Questions for common school license and for primary license will be printed on the same sheet each month."

AMUSEMENTS

The Star Grand will present two pictures tonight. The first is a drama entitled "The Mother's Shadow," and the second one is an excellent comedy entitled "Thieves as Quick Change Artists." Earl Robertson will sing "If This Rose Told You All It Knows."

The Vaudet will show the usual two reels of pictures for tonight. The first is a Thanhouser film, "Wanted to Marry a Hero." The second picture is an Italia film, another of the series, "Foolshead Between Two Fires." A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Palace management will show a Biograph film tonight in the subject, "Effecting a Cure." It is a roaringly funny comedy with many mirthful situations such that will bring laughs at every turn of the reel. It is a story of wifey and hubby, the stronger half of the household being especially fond of his own club. With wifey and her mother he has a racy time with what results? A new illustrated song will be sung.

Society is expected to turn out in full force to welcome the return of Victor Moore this time under the management of Frazee and Lederer, the producers of "Madame Sherry," in a new musical comedy entitled "The Happiest Night of His Life." Mr. Moore won the hearts of all theatergoers by his unique personality and clever slang expressions as Kid Burns in "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" and "The Talk of New York." He has in his latest success a part not unlike its predecessors, although the story and incidents of the comedy are entirely new. During the many years that Mr. Moore has been starring he has never had in his support as many well known artists as are now playing with him, in the attraction which is to entertain theatergoers at English's opera house, Indianapolis, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, January 5, 6 and 7, with a Saturday matinee.

THE OLDEST PAPER.

The Scioto Gazette, the oldest American Newspaper without change of name has celebrated its 110th anniversary with a handsomely illustrated historical edition. The Gazette made its initial appearance in Chillicothe in 1800, and it has been issued ever since on its announced publication day. Its first editor was Nathaniel Willis, grandfather of the poet of the same name. The present owners of the paper are G. W. C. Perry and David Meade Massie, members of the distinguished families of the State. Mr. Massie is a grandson of Gen. Nathaniel Massie, founder of Chillicothe, once the capital of the northwest territory.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.—take the advice received and be well.

"I believe," said Cayley, "that the Journal will be worth more than the maps in this search of ours tonight. Anyway, while you work one I can work the other."

She nodded, picked up the Journal and crossed over with it to another of the bunks. There she seated herself, tucked her feet up comfortably under her, tailor-fashion, and, propping her chin upon one palm, began to read. The light coming from behind her made, to Cayley's vision, a misty halo of her hair, and played softly over the cheek and the fingers that were half embedded in it.

The sight of her made it hard for him to stick to his maps. But presently he looked up with a sudden question. "Do you happen to find anything?" he began, and then broke off shortly.

From her face, half-shaded as it was, he could see that what she had been reading just then was no mere description of this land upon which they had been cast away, but something far more personal to the father she had lost here.

"There's something perfectly terrifying," she said, "about father's description of this man Roscoe. Over here near the end, before the sun came back to them, he tells of going out for a walk by himself and of discovering that Roscoe was stalking him, in the hope, he thought, of discovering, in advance of the others, where the gold ledge was. In the twilight, father says, he looked, in his white bear-skins, perfectly enormous and incredible. And Philip—"

She closed the book, holding it tight in both hands, and leaning forward a little as she went on, "And Philip, his description sounds—oh, I suppose it's silly, but it sounds like the thing I thought I saw today when I was alone there on the beach, before you came flying down out of the sky. It didn't look like a bear. It wouldn't have been so dreadful if it had."

"It's possible," he said gravely, "it may have been he whom I frightened off when I came down last night. Certainly there was somebody, and that somebody may still be here on shore, though I supposed he had gone out to join in the attack on the yacht. But it's very strange, if there is any one, that we could have passed a whole day without encountering him."

The girl shivered; then, with a shake of her head as if dismissing the uncanny thought from her mind, said: "You started to ask me about something else, and I interrupted."

It took him a moment to collect his thoughts. "Oh, yes. There's something marked here on this map which I took at first for the location of the hut, but it appears now that it was marked before they built it. I wonder if, in the early pages of the Journal, there was a description of any natural formation about here like a cave, or—"

She made as if to open the book, then, suddenly, changed her intention and held it out to him, instead.

"I haven't been playing fair," she said. "I wasn't really looking for any—"

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of its souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

thing. I was just reading stories and dreaming over them. It's his handwriting, I think, that makes it so hard to be good. It's—well, almost like hearing his voice. Won't you work the book and the maps and give me something to do—with my hands, I mean?—oh, I know I'm tired, but that doesn't matter."

Cayley's first impulse was to refuse, but it needed only one thoughtful look into her face to convince him that the kindest, as well as the wisest, thing was to do as she asked. An uncanny horror of the monstrous Roscoe and the appalling idea that he, and perhaps others of his gang, might be sharing the solitude of this frozen coast with them was plainly to be read in her eyes, and her own prescription for dispelling it was probably the best that could be thought of.

With a nod of assent, he rose and went into the storeroom, returning the next moment with an armful of heavy rope.

"In the old days of wooden ships," he said, "when they wanted to discipline a sailor, they set him to picking oakum. Next to pounding rust off the anchor, it's the dullest job in the world. But we need some for calking up the cracks in our walls. Do you mind?"

"Mind!" she echoed. "Did you think I wanted to do embroidery?" He showed her how the work was to be done, and in five minutes she was busily engaged at it. She had moved to another bunk, a little further from the fire, and he, with innocent artifice, had contrived that the big soft sleeping-bag should be spread out under her.

Meanwhile he plunged into a systematic search, through Journal and maps, for the thing that was to spell either life or death for them.

At the end of an hour he looked up suddenly, an exclamation of triumph on his lips. But at the sight of her, it died out in a smile. She had slipped down on the sleeping-bag, her head cradled in the crook of one arm. And she was fast asleep.

CHAPTER XV.

Discoveries.

The sunlight of another crystalline day had made a path of gold across the floor and half way up the wall when Philip roused himself from what he had intended to make the merest cat-nap on one of the bunks, and with difficulty rubbed his eyes open. The savour of something good to eat was already in his nostrils.

"Why—What's the Matter, Philip?"

Jeanne, with her back to him, was bending over the fire, busy with the breakfast. She heard him stirring, and looked around.

"Oh, I'm sorry," she said. "I didn't mean to bang that pan down that way. I meant you to go on sleeping for hours and hours."

Looking fairly at him as he sat there on the bunk she saw his hands clutch tightly over the edge of it; saw the color go ebbing out of his face and then come surging back again. She had seen him do that once before.

"Why—what's the matter, Philip?" she asked.

"It's just the wonder of you," he said slowly; "of waking up to find you here, busy about this home of ours—as if—as if it were all true. I've been very deep asleep."

"You'd better get ready for breakfast," she said, in a tone whose matter-of-fact inflection was a little exaggerated. "It's nearly ready."

When they had finished, and while they still sat face to face across the board plank which had served them for a table, Cayley leaned forward a little and, smiling, asked a question.

"What's the secret, Jeanne? Your eyes have been shining with mystery ever since we sat down here."

She laughed. "You're much too penetrating. I didn't mean you even to dream there was a mystery to penetrate. But—well, it's time to tell you now, any way."

She, too, leaned forward a little and shook her head at him with a tantalizing air of triumph.

"You didn't find the thing you were looking for last night in father's Journal—the place where they hid the stores, I mean."

"Oh, but I did!" he cried. "I only waited to give you time to eat a necessary and sensible breakfast before I spoke of it. I had it on the tip of my tongue to suggest that we set about finding it in good earnest, when I saw, in your eyes, that you had a mystery of your own."

It was evident from the look in those eyes now that she was both surprised and puzzled.

"You found it last night!" she exclaimed. "Found it in the Journal, and then never went to look at it!"

"Why, I found an unmistakable reference to it, and though the exact location wasn't given, it was plain that three or four hours' exploring by daylight would enable us to find it. But even if I hadn't minded leaving you asleep here, unprotected, in the hut, I doubt very much if I could have found it at night. But what's the mystery you were about to reveal to me?"

"No," she said; "tell me more about your discovery first. What was the reference in the Journal?"

He rose and took down from the shelf the big leather-bound volume which was proving itself, with every hour, their greatest treasure.

"It's over here, toward the end," he said, "in that last winter when the Walrus came—oh, here we are."

He seated himself on the bunk beside her, and began to read.

"March 10th.—We have just spent an arduous and fearful week upon the task of unloading the wreck of the whaler. The weather has been severe—bitterly cold (—10 degrees Fahrenheit being the mildest)—and three-quarters of a gale blowing most of the time. The men are inclined to be rebellious over my driving them out to work in such weather, but I dared not wait for it to moderate."

"When the ice opens round the whaler, she will go down like a plummet; and if that event should have happened before we unloaded her of her stores, our plight would have been utterly desperate. Of stores in the ordinarily accepted sense, she had but a scanty supply, and those of a miserably inferior description; but she contained half a cargo of whale oil in barrels, which now that they are landed will settle the problem of fuel for us as long as the last survivor of our company can hope to remain alive. And fuel is, after all, the only necessity which this land itself does not supply us with. Of course we shall have to forego the delights of bear steak when our ammunition gives out, but walruses we can kill with harpoons. And with these and scurvy-grass, which we gather in the valley every summer, there is no danger of actual starvation."

"We hoisted the barrels of blubber out of the whaler's hold with a hand tackle, sledged them ashore along the floe and the crown of the glacier to Moseley's cave, which seemed to be the most convenient place to store them temporarily."

Cayley laid down the book and turned to the girl.

"That's the place, I'm perfectly sure," he said. "It evidently faces the glacier, but it must be very near the beach, for they wouldn't have hauled those barrels any further than necessary."

"Is that all he says about it?" "It's all he says directly, but there's a reference just a little further along which made me all the surer I was right. Let's see."

He opened the book again and ran his eye down the page. "—A hundred-weight or so of spermaceti and two barrels of sperm oil we took directly to the hut—here, this is what I was looking for."

"The knowledge we get by experience often comes too late to be of any great service to us. I made some mistakes in stripping the Phoenix, which I should not repeat now. For instance, carrying her pilot house, with infinite labor, up to the cliff-head for an observatory. It is thoroughly impracticable for this purpose."

If you are troubled with Catarrh, Cold in the head. Headache etc., you can be relieved and probably cured for a dime. There is no remedy that has given the satisfaction as Dr. Price's Plex. It is a simple, harmless preparation; an antiseptic that can be taken internally; unlike other preparations on the market. Plex 10c, surely cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, cold in the head, Headache. PROOF THAT PROVES

If one person more than another should know the value of medicine, it is the retail druggist.

Therefore when ten thousand retail druggists of the United States recommend Vinol, the delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, as the best strengthening tonic known, and are willing to return their customers' money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction, there can be no room for doubt.

Among others, one of the most reliable druggists of Lynn, Mass., Mr. Warren Toppan, says, "From personal experience I know what Vinol will do. I had a chronic cold all winter, and was so weak I could hardly get about. Nothing seemed to help me until I tried Vinol—the change was magic—and what surprised me most, Vinol not only cured the cold but built me up and cured me of a severe stomach trouble that had bothered me for twenty years. Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person or any person suffering from chronic coughs and colds to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. F. B. Johnson & Co., Rushville, Ind.

I doubt if I have visited it three times since Mr. Moseley's death—"

"He was the astronomer and botanist of father's expedition," said the girl.

Cayley read on: "But now that I have learned my lesson, I have but little to apply the knowledge to. The Walrus is, I believe, the most utterly wretched hulk that ever sailed the seas—ill-found, detestably dirty and literally rotting to pieces. We shall, however, get enough planks and timbers out of her to build a shed or two near the hut, for the more convenient storage of our supplies."

Again he closed the book. "That's what I was looking for," he said. "You see they brought that stuff down from the cave to these sheds; so the cave would be almost inevitably the first hiding place they would think of when the sight of the Aurora drove them to hustle everything out of sight."

"Whereabout on the cliff is the observatory, Philip?"

"I was wondering about that. I've flown across the cliff a number of times, but have never seen anything of it. He may have wrecked it; taken it down and used it for some other purpose."

"No," she said; "he'd hardly have had time for that. There weren't many more pages to write in the Journal when he made that entry."

She fell then into a little abstracted silence, which the man did not know how to break. But presently she roused herself and came fully back to the present, back to him.

WALTER BROOKINS

Daring Lad Not Deterred by Fate of Flying Companion.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—The English aviator, James Radley, speed king of the aviation meet which closed last evening, narrowly escaped a fate like Hoxsey's when a gust of wind which struck the right wing of his Bleriot monoplane tilted it to a dangerous angle. Only Radley's alertness, the result of a warning to be careful at that point, averted an accident. He succeeded in righting his machine and making a safe landing. As he climbed out he said it was the closest call he had experienced.

Hubert Latham was host to several society women who are aviation enthusiasts. Countess De Swirsky, the Russian dancer, was taken up, and then Mrs. William Bayly, jr., and Miss Bernard tested the delights of aviation. These were the first women passengers Latham has carried during the meet here.

During the closing hour of the meet nearly all the machines were in the air. Parmelee and Brookins, with the memory of Hoxsey still vivid, gave farewell thrills, including the spiral dip and ocean wave.

BITTER ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT

Gifford Pinchot Also Comes In for Excoriation.

AN ALASKAN WRITES TO TAFT

In a Long Letter Submitted to the President in Answer to Pinchot's Charges of Fraud, President Joslin of the Tanana Valley Railroad Takes Occasion to Give the Other Side of the Controversy.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Falcon Joslin, president of the Tanana Valley Railroad company of Alaska, in a long letter submitted to President Taft in answer to charges of fraud made by Gifford Pinchot and his brother Amos in relation to the Cunningham coal claims, not only arraigns Pinchot severely, but makes a bitter attack on former President Roosevelt. Mr. Joslin characterizes Pinchot as a "self-appointed champion" and Roosevelt as "the former imperial occupant of the White House." He says that as one of the 30,000 citizens of Alaska, he wishes to protest against Pinchot's charge that the Cunningham claims were fraudulently filed, and, if approved, will work to the detriment of Alaska. Joslin's remarks about Roosevelt are particularly acrimonious. He says that Roosevelt vetoed one act of congress relating to Alaskan coal lands by a mere order, upon the advice and approval of Pinchot. This was the act of 1904, which Mr. Roosevelt had previously approved.

"Two years later," says Joslin, "Pinchot concluded that it was not a good law. He did not apply to congress to amend or repeal it, but went directly to the imperial occupant of the White House and Mr. Roosevelt on Nov. 12, 1906, issued an order suspending it. He not only suspended it as to future applications, but suspended the rights of those already initiated under it. Was there ever a more despotic use of executive power in this nation?"

"It was an illegal usurpation. It was a high and dangerous misdemeanor. It has blocked the development of the territory of Alaska. Mr. Roosevelt here assumed the right to abrogate an act of congress. It was a tyranny and an invasion of the rights of the people of Alaska. They are entitled to live under law, and not under despotic orders far more demoralizing than any fraud that ever has been perpetrated by an individual against the public domain. Though four years have passed this coal law of 1904 still stands suspended. It is not through oppression of any great and grasping monopoly that has, as Mr. Pinchot claims, arrested the development of Alaska, but the abuse of power at Washington instigated by Mr. Pinchot that has troubled our development."

Mr. Joslin says he holds no brief for Cunningham and has no interest of any kind or nature in the case except as a citizen of Alaska.

"The principal, if not the only, object of Mr. Pinchot's intervention," says Mr. Joslin, "is evidently to embarrass and to do injury to Secretary Ballinger, to whom he bears mortal enmity. He has written his hatred of Secretary Ballinger into his brief."

BONEY BACK AGAIN

Now the Question Is, Will He Come Back Again, After This?

Stanford, Ky., Jan. 3.—When a negro named "Boney" Baxter was brought before City Judge Menefee on a charge of loitering the judge said:

"Well, Boney, you back again? Come out in the back yard and we will attend to your case."

Judge Menefee picked up a barrel stave and began a vigorous campaign on Boney's person, a policeman holding the negro in position. The judge broke several barrel staves over Boney.

Hanged Herself on Clothes Hook.

New York, Jan. 3.—Anna Volinsky, the woman who was committed to the Manhattan state hospital on Ward's Island about a month ago after she had threatened to take the life of Jacob H. Schiff, was found dead, hanging by a slender rope from a hook in the clothesroom at the hospital, late yesterday afternoon.

WOMEN TO BE GIVEN A CHANCE TO RULE

That Is, If Adams County Men Can Arrange It.

West Union, O., Jan. 3.—The people here, with a hundred more indictments reported by the special grand jury investigating ballot bartering in Adams county, are raising a cry for woman's suffrage as a cure for election corruption. The jury will adjourn today for a few days to give Judge Blair and Special Prosecutor Stephenson time to review their work. Then a second jury will be called to make a second investigation. It is the aim of Judge Blair to catch the vote buyers and men higher up in the second probe.

The cause of woman suffrage is being boomed by the men in Adams county because here, and here alone, men hitherto regarded as representative citizens know what it means to be disfranchised.

One woman, a widow, Mrs. Fallie Inlow of Meigs township, confessed to selling her son's vote, but despite this one exception it is the women of Adams county who have been the most potent factor in bringing about the investigation which will disfranchise one-third of the county's voters. Over 1,300 have been indicted.

SPALDING NOT IN IT

The Californians Seem to Look on Him as a Carpetbagger.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 3.—It looks as though Judge John S. Works of Los Angeles would be the next United States senator from California to succeed Senator Flint. His managers have secured nearly all the requisite sixty-one votes necessary to choice. Works is favored by Insurgent Republicans, and he has developed too much strength for A. G. Spalding, the millionaire sporting goods man of San Diego, who is regarded as a carpet bagger, since he has only been a resident of California about five years.

May Complicate the Situation.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 3.—The United States senatorship is much in doubt. Neither ex-Governor McMinn nor Senator J. B. Frazier have yet shown a possible majority. If General Luke E. Wright comes in, the situation will be so complicated that no one can foresee the result.

LOBBYISTS UNDER FIRE

Hoosier Solons Preparing to Sit Down on These Gentry.

Indianapolis, Jan. 3.—One of the first things the Indiana legislature will do will be to give some attention to the gentlemen of the third house, and try by legislative enactment to curtail the rights and privileges of those distinguished representatives of the "plain people." Several members have bills already prepared or in process of preparation touching the subject of professional lobbying.

A bill was introduced at the last general assembly to control the members of the third house, but it was never brought to a vote. The members who have such bills this session hope for better success.

Slip on Ice Causes Death.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 3.—Barbara Sorg, aged twenty-nine, living ten miles south of here, slipped on the ice as she was leaving her home and in the fall received a concussion of the brain that caused death a few hours later.

THOSE PLEDGES MUST BE KEPT

It Is Said This Is Keynote of Marshall's Message.

STATE DOCUMENT COMPLETED

In the Message He Will Hand Down at the Convening of the Indiana General Assembly on Thursday It Is Understood That Governor Marshall Will Insist That the Majority Shall Keep Its Platform Promises.

Indianapolis, Jan. 3.—The message he will send to the legislature next Thursday has been completed by Governor Marshall, who, it is understood, will recommend strongly the enactment of laws to carry out every pledge made by the Democrats in their state platform. There is to be no equivocation on the temperance question, it is said, the governor being understood to stand squarely on the Democratic platform, favoring the substitution of the city, incorporated town and township as units, for the present county local option plan.

There has been an effort for more than two years to create the impression that Governor Marshall is not in favor of the position taken by his party in the last two campaigns on the local option question. Two years ago he asserted that if he did not believe in the Democratic plank he would not run on it. Last fall he was even stronger in voicing his views. The local option feature of the governor's message is understood to be one of the big features of it.

The State's Finances.

It is said the governor will demand of the Democrats that no platform pledge shall be overlooked. It is understood that he will be vigorous in his demands that there shall be no wasting of the state's finances. It is said he goes to considerable length to show why the legislature should adopt two appropriation bills, one for the ordinary running expenses of the state and the other providing for the specific appropriations. It is further understood that he will give the legislature a statement of the financial condition of the state, showing what the revenues will be during the next two years and urging the legislature to keep within them.

The legislative visitation committee will have its report ready for the opening of the session. It has followed the governor's lead and will make recommendations that can be met by the revenues the state will raise during the next two years.

The governor, it is said, will insist in his message that he is not attempting to dictate, but that he is merely recommending what he thinks ought to be done. Two years ago he urged the legislature to reorganize the state oil department by providing for only one deputy inspector for each congressional district and placing them on a straight salary basis.

It is said he will ask for a law giving the governor the authority to remove local authorities when it is shown beyond question that they are violating their oaths of office. The governor, it is declared, is not going to attempt to bring about any great reforms in any direction. He is going to ask for the enactment of laws to make interurban travel safer. He has conferred with the various departments, and it is said the message covers every branch of the state government and the Democratic platform thoroughly.

Twelve Platform Pledges.

The committee of Democratic representatives appointed at the recent conference of the members of the lower house to see to it that bills covering all of the Democratic platform pledges are introduced early in the session of the legislature will not prepare or introduce the various platform bills, but they will see to it that bills are introduced by Democratic members. The bills will be submitted to this committee before they are introduced and the committee will determine whether they are in line with the platform declarations, but this is as far as the work of the committee will extend. After their introduction the bills will be referred to committees and will take the regular course on the road to passage.

There are twelve of these platform declarations, as follows:

- To change the unit of local option from county to township and city and township outside of city.
- To provide for better maintenance of turnpikes.
- To prevent child labor evils.
- For better sanitary conditions in workshops.
- For a weekly wage law.
- To consolidate the offices of state factory inspector and state labor commissioner into one bureau to be known as the bureau of labor and inspection.
- To provide for the appointment of the state mine inspector by the governor.
- To shorten the hours of labor.
- Co-employee's liability.
- To require arbitration of all disputes between capital and labor.
- To prevent competition of prison-made goods with goods made by free labor.
- Registration of voters.

FARMERS FOR NEW LICENSE PLAN

George W. Miles, Fish Commissioner
Would Require People to Pay For Fishing.

OUTSIDE THEIR OWN COUNTY

Indiana farmers are falling in the plan of George W. Miles, state fish and game commissioner, to require people to pay a license fee for fishing outside their own counties. Many residents of the rural districts have written to Mr. Miles heartily endorsing the proposed law.

It is the idea of the fish and game commissioner to use the funds raised from the sale of fishing licenses to establish and maintain hatcheries with which to stock the lakes and streams with fish. The need of a general restocking seems to be recognized by the farmers of the State.
